

Advice when you have a broken collar bone

Virtual Fracture Clinic

Patient Information Leaflet

Introduction

Your child has fractured their clavicle which means they have broken the collar bone in their shoulder (see figure 1). This type of fracture is common in children.

What is the treatment?

This type of fracture heals well – the only treatments required are painkillers and a sling.

What should I do at home?

- We would expect the collar bone to be painful for four to six weeks.
- Your child may find it more comfortable to sleep sitting upright for a few days after the injury. The sling can be removed at night with a pillow placed under the arm for support.
- Your child can move their shoulder and arm out of the sling as comfort allows. This will usually be about two weeks after the injury but can be sooner, if comfortable
- The 'bump' over the fracture is quite normal and is produced by healing bone. It may take up to one year to disappear. If your child is older than 10 years, a small bump may remain.
- Your child can return to sports such as swimming as soon as comfortable but should avoid contact sports (such as football, rugby and basketball) for six weeks.
- If your child is still experiencing significant problems after three months, please phone the Fracture Clinic for further advice on 01384 456111 ext. 2220.

If you have any worries or concerns, or need to ask about returning to work or sport, please contact one of the following:
